

OBJECT TO BLIND IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Sightless Men and Women Will Protest at Plan to Commissioners.

Officers of the District Association of Workers for the Blind, composed entirely of sightless men and women of the Capital, arranged last night to appear before the District Commissioners next Tuesday morning and enter a vigorous protest against the plan to educate the blind children of the District in the local public schools.

The invitation of the Commissioners to discuss this matter was accepted at a meeting of the association last night in the Library of Congress. President S. French Hurty will present the principal argument before the Commissioners. He holds that the special training necessary to make a blind child self-supporting cannot be had when that child is placed in classes with children who can see, and will oppose the plan to educate the Washington blind here instead of at the Maryland School for the Blind where the most of them now attend.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—George Clinton Batcheller, the millionaire corset manufacturer, with seventy-nine years to his credit, was sequestered yesterday behind impenetrable barriers at his home, No. 22 West Seventy-second street.

His beautiful bride of thirty years, Miss Tuene Ruth Goddes, pronounced the "most perfect woman in Newport" by her former employer in fashionable costume stores, is said to be the charming ruler of the New York mansion, but she is a "Cinderella" invisible.

The marriage took place in Boston on Wednesday.

Three Boys Who Left Philadelphia to See the World Are Held by Anacostia Police on Arrival in Twining City.
Traveled on Board Freight Train.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU.

ANACOSTIA, D. C., Sept. 19.

Three boys who ran away from their homes in Philadelphia night before last, and were held by the Anacostia police yesterday in Twining City, were sent back today. Their parents were notified last night of the finding of their sons.

The boys are James Fleming, sixteen years old, of 415 Noble street; Robert Douglas, sixteen, of 223 Noble street; and Joseph Doyle, sixteen, of 223 Buttonwood street.

The boys jumped on a freight train in Philadelphia and concealed themselves until Benning was reached yesterday. There they left the car and walked several miles to Twining City. They were given a good meal at the Anacostia station house and were sent to the house of detention afterward. They told the police they had no money for leaving their homes, except that they wanted to travel and see something of the world.

The marriage of Mrs. Anna F. Adams and Magruder Coe, both connected with the Government Hospital for the Insane, took place last evening in the rectory of St. Teresa's Church. The Rev. M. E. Egan, assistant pastor, performed the ceremony. A number of friends of the couple were present. Mr. and Mrs. Coe went on a wedding journey to several resorts, including Atlantic City. They will return next week.

The scarcity of nuts in the woods this year has caused people interested in weather predictions to forecast a mild winter. The crop of chestnuts is said to be the poorest in many years. There are hardly any walnuts, and acorns, usually plentiful, are not as abundant as last season. Weather prophets believe a large crop of nuts presages a hard winter, the claim being made that Nature provides a store of nuts as provision for animals previous to the advent of a severe winter.

Salem Lodge, No. 22, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held its annual watermelon feast last night in the Anacostia Masonic Hall. Initiatory ceremonies for several candidates were held. Members of other lodges in the city were invited, and were greeted by John T. Dent, noble grand, and his staff of officers. Joseph K. Davidson, recording secretary, who founded Salem Lodge nearly twenty-one years ago, told the history of the organization.

A large number of club women and others from all parts of this county and elsewhere attended the eighth annual convention of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs, in the Presbyterian church yesterday. Morning and afternoon sessions were held, with Mrs. J. W. Townsend, of Kensington, presiding.

Claude O. Danridge, colored, was required to leave $5 at the Anacostia police station yesterday on a charge of cruelty to animals. Capt. W. T. Anderson procured the warrant for the man's arrest.
